

PRODUCT COMPLAINT — SUSPECTED LOSS OF POTENCY

Received via customer portal — Ticket #PC-2026-11840

|                   |                                    |
|-------------------|------------------------------------|
| Complaint Source  | Customer Portal                    |
| Customer Name     | Silverbrook Retail Pharmacy Chain  |
| Contact           | clinical@silverbrookpharmacy.co.uk |
| Product Name      | Insulin Glargine Injection         |
| Strength / Grade  | 100 IU/mL, 3 mL pen                |
| Batch No          | ING-4417-D                         |
| Mfg Date          | 08/09/2025                         |
| Expiry Date       | 07/09/2027                         |
| Quantity Affected | 150 pens                           |
| Complaint Date    | 02/07/2026                         |

NATURE OF COMPLAINT

Description: Four separate patients dispensed from this batch across two branches have reported that their fasting blood glucose readings have risen materially over the past three weeks despite no change to diet, dosing schedule or injection technique. Two patients report morning readings 4–6 mmol/L above their established baseline. One patient required an unscheduled diabetic clinic review and a temporary dose increase.

On inspection the pens appear physically normal, correctly labelled and within expiry, with no visible cloudiness or particulate. However, our goods-in temperature logger for the consignment containing this batch recorded an excursion to 19.4 degrees Celsius sustained for approximately eleven hours during transit on 04 June 2026, against the labelled storage requirement of 2 to 8 degrees Celsius. We suspect a cold-chain failure has degraded the active ingredient.

We are seeking confirmation of whether this batch should be recalled from patient use and whether the recorded excursion is sufficient to compromise potency. Remaining stock has been moved to quarantine pending your assessment. The temperature logger export is attached to the portal ticket.

Reported by: Marcus Delaney, Superintendent Pharmacist, Silverbrook Retail Pharmacy Chain.